do well. We can afford to differ on local affairs-such as the fence law-but we cannot afford to be divided on State matters Some say that I passed the fence law, but I had nothing to do with it. Your County was the first to adopt the system of primary elections, be governed by its result, and allow no independents to run. Independents may sometimes be good men, but now they are our worst enemies. Be united in this grand movement, and send your best men to the Legislature. I urge you to be united. Do this, and you will find South Carolina immutably redeemed. I urge you to do it as the one thing most important.—Extract from Gov. Hampton's speech at A fiderson.

SAVANNAH VALLEY RAILROAD.

Col. Latimer, President of the Savan nah Valley Railroad, has called a meeting of the corporators of this Road to convene at Lowndesville on the 8th day are now ready, willing and waiting to of May next at 10 o'clock a. m. It is intended to push matters vigorously for the to them for adjustment, but this adjustorganization of the company and the completion of this railroad. Fourteen miles of the Greenwood & Augusta Railroad has been graded at an average cost of about five hundred dollars per mile, and it is expected to have the grading completed during the present year on the whole line. This rapid advance of the Greenwood & Augusta Road has inspired a fresh courage in the friends of the Sa- debts, and are perfectly satisfied that the vannah Valley enterprise, which will debt we owe him is a just one, and should take solid direction at the Lowndesville be paid by all means—we owe him a

Our people need this railroad as a link in the system which proper enterprise and diligence upon their part may yet build up. The completion of this link would greatly increase the prospect of completing the Blue Ridge Railroad, and with these two roads, with the G. & C. R. R., our town would immediately become a railroad center of no small importance, and the completion of other intersecting and diverging lines would then become a simple matter of time. Anderson is by natural location and climate a most desirable County to live in, and has well improved the advantages given it in many ways. Its population is one of the most industrious and intelligent in the State : its influence is probably greater than that of any other County in the State; it is favored with as many colleges and high schools as any County of the same population in the State; it is the Banner County of South Carolina in politics, temperance and the grange. In manufactures it is not as far down on the list as most other counties, and yet we have but a single railroad, whose sway is despotic and by which our development has been checked and our commerce, to a great extent, dissipated.

These things ought not so to be. Our in other matters and end this railroad monopoly, which, like a vice, clamps our prosperity, deprives us of commercial growth and makes us tributary, as a people, to the towns of other counties. We should remember that in order to retain our advanced position, we must keep pace with the age of improvement in with the things of to-day, we will be behind our neighbors on to-morrow. We will gradually be absorbed by the pro- of its ability by the change. Col. Hoyt gressing towns, and will pass as a town has done a great deal to build up this cance. This does not only apply to the towns, but our agriculture will be less profitable than that of our neighbors, for to display his well known ability as an they, living upon or near the lines of competing railroads, will have ready sale for in the front rank of journalism, and and good markets for their produce, made it equal in influence to any paper while our farmers will be compelled to in South Carolina. The new proprietors wagon and camp or pay tribute to the have acted wisely in securing a continumonopoly of a single railroad. The result of this will be to enhance the value of lands in surrounding counties, and to decrease their value in this County. Our people then should devote their attention to securing the Savannah Valley Railroad as the cheapest, quickest and most direct relief that can be obtained against the monopoly which now afflicts us, and threatens to continue its oppressions for all time to come unless checked by wholesome competition.

The government of South Carolina will be a model, in this respect, and I trust, financially, for other Southern States. Kimpton's letter has the ear-marks of falsehood stamped all the way through it. If he has properly settled his accounts, why is he running from the law ! If he has a large sum due him from the State, why is he unwilling to face her authorities? He is the first public creditor that we have ever heard of who is so bashful that he has to flee from his home and from his country because a State owes him a large sum of money. As the Augusta Chronicle and Constitutionalist remarks, there is a committee of twelve men of integrity and good judgment in Judge Shaw's Court in Columbia who allow Mr. Kimpton to submit his account ment is exactly what Kimpton does not want, although it is what the Governor and the people are determined that he shall have, if we can possibly get hold of him. We have no doubt at all that the State will fall in debt to Mr. Kimpton upon's final settlement of his account and we are in favor of paying this debt. We believe in paying all of our just support for life as a convict in our State Penitentiary, and South Carolina will never pay off this debt until she furnishes

The situation in Europe is intensely critical, and upon the result of the present crisis the problem of a tremendous war will depend. The English lion is at last thoroughly aroused, and its roars have already terrified Europe with cede, and with the prestige of conquest opposition. It is the claim of the Ursuine Convent, situated near Columbia, for the value of the property, including buildings and furniture, which was burnt by the raid in 1865. This property was used as a College of high grade for young ladies, and belonged to the Catholic Church. It was also the home of many ladies who had taken the yows of nuns in that Church, and were devoting their lives to the fulfillment of what they deemed their religious duty. Whatever differences of opinion may be held as to the correctness of their faith, there can be no dispute that the life of the Sisters of Charity is one of benevolence to the suffering and needy ones of earth, and as such, they are entitled to not only the protection which is afforded every lady in a civilized country, but also to the consideration which is extended to public benefactors at the hands of the barbarian and savage. At any rate it would have been supposed that the home of de fenseless ladies, that the abode of young ladies at College, that the residence of those devoting thamselves to what they believe to be their religious duty, and spending their lives in acts of benevolence, would have been spared the ravages of war, and yet this institution was to our country to allow such a claim to go unadjusted. It ought to be promptly and fully paid as the least atonement mers of the age was have control of the for the wrong consistent with the honor Congress will exercise the magnanimity has nothing to fear. It affords me pleasure to say that my men when called on by me in this matter not only responded promptly, but almost to a man. It is not true that some of the guns of my men were used by the Redmond party, and it is equally false that some of my men aided in breaking into the jail recently and procuring the escape of prisoners therein.
